About the Five Ways to Wellbeing

Research shows there are five simple things you can do as part of your daily life – at work and at home – to build resilience, boost your wellbeing and lower your risk of developing mental health problems. These simple actions are known internationally as the Five Ways to Wellbeing¹.

The Five Ways to Wellbeing are – Connect, Be Active, Keep Learning, Give, and Take Notice.

They help people take care of their mental health and wellbeing. Regularly practising the Five Ways is beneficial for everyone – whether you have a mental health problem or not.

Why the Five Ways work:

- Connect: Strengthening relationships with others and feeling close to and valued by others, including at work, is critical to boosting wellbeing.
- Keep Learning: Being curious and seeking out new experiences at work and in life more generally positively stimulates the brain.
- Be Active: Being physically active, including at work, improves physical health and can improve mood and wellbeing and decrease stress, depression and anxiety.
- Give: Carrying out acts of kindness, whether small or large, can increase happiness, life satisfaction and general sense of wellbeing.
- Take Notice: Paying more attention to the present moment, to thoughts and feelings and to the world around, boosts our wellbeing.

The Five Ways in action:

- Connect with the people around you. With family, friends, colleagues and neighbours.
- Keep Learning. Try something new. Rediscover an old interest. Take on a new responsibility at work.
- Be Active. Go for a walk or run. Step outside. Garden. Play a game.
- Give. Do something nice for a team mate. Thank someone. Volunteer your time.
- Take Notice. Remark on the unusual. Notice the changing seasons. Savour the moment.

¹ The Five Ways to Wellbeing were developed by the New Economics Foundation (NEF) on behalf of the Foresight Commission in the UK and adapted for New Zealand by the Mental Health Foundation.

TALK & LISTEN,
BE THERE,
FEEL CONNECTED

ME KŌRERO, ME WHAKARONGO,
ME WHAKAWĀTEA I A KOE, ME RONGO I TE WHANAUNGATANGA

Strong relationships with others are an essential part of building resilience and boosting wellbeing.

Evidence shows that CONNECTING with others including colleagues, friends, whānau and the wider community promotes wellbeing, and helps build a support network for when times get tough.

We all need to feel close to other people, and valued by them. At work, having good relationships with colleagues helps us stay motivated and engaged. Connecting is about being there for others, talking and listening, and feeling a sense of belonging.

Examples:

- Talk to someone – and really listen
- Organise a shared lunch
- Reconnect with an old friend
- Eat lunch with colleagues
- Find ways to collaborate
- Plan a social event at work
- Play with your kids
- Talk or phone instead of emailing
- Join a team or club

“I arrange to meet a friend for lunch once a week. Just an hour away from the office having a chat, sharing worries and having a laugh reenergises me.” Julia, IT support

Personal wellbeing plan

- Think about how you are already doing this in your everyday life, and at work. How could you do more of this?
- Are there things you used to do in the past you'd like to get back into?
- New activities you've been curious about trying?
- How could you do more of this at work?

In my life, I already connect with others by:

How it feels when I connect:

I've connected with people in the past by:

New ways of connecting that I'd like to try:

Using this, I plan to

Action:	By when:
e.g. Have coffee with Janet	This Saturday, and once a month

EMBRACE NEW EXPERIENCES, SEE OPPORTUNITIES, SURPRISE YOURSELF

AWHITIA TE WHEAKO HOU, KIMIHIHIA NGĀ ARA HOU, ME OHORERE KOE I A KOE ANŌ

Being curious and seeking out new experiences positively stimulates the brain.

Setting goals, being open to new ideas and continuing to LEARN throughout life helps boost wellbeing and build resilience.

Learning improves our self-esteem, keeps us connected and involved and helps us adapt to change and find meaning in our lives. It has also been shown to help prevent depression in later years.

Learning is more than just formal education – it's about exploring new ideas, seeing opportunities, embracing new experiences and sharpening our skills. It means being curious and having an enquiring mind, in all areas of life.

Examples:

- Take a course
- Learn an instrument or language
- Visit a public art space
- Add to your work knowledge
- Organise lunchtime workshops
- Set a goal and work towards achieving it
- Take on a new task or help someone
- Get to know your colleagues more
- Join a book club
- Listen to a podcast or read a journal article

“Once a month we have a lunchtime workshop. An organising group member invites someone to talk to us, or do an activity, and we provide sandwiches. I persuaded my husband to come and give us some basic accounting principles, and last month we had a demonstration on maintaining a bicycle from the bike shop – I think they sold two!” AM, Marketing

ENJOY WHAT YOU DO,
MOVE YOUR MOOD

WHĀIA TE MEA KA
TAEA E KOE, KIA
PĀREKAREKA TĀU I
WHAI AI, KIA PAI AKE
Ō PIROPIRO

Being physically active every day is great for our bodies and minds.

As well as improving physical health and fitness, being ACTIVE can also improve our mood and overall mental wellbeing, and decrease stress, depression and anxiety.

These benefits are increased when we get outside.

Being active with others can help us feel more connected, and motivates us to build new habits.

Being active does not have to mean going for a run. Do what you can to move your mood. Any form of physical movement can be beneficial – find something that you enjoy and that suits your level of mobility and fitness.

Think about how you could move or stand more at work – build habits to bring more active movement into your work day.

Examples:

- Go for a gentle stroll at lunchtime
- Join a sports team
- Break up long periods of sitting
- Have walking meetings
- Take a yoga, Pilates or Tai Chi class
- Use the stairs instead of the lift
- Do some gardening
- Try some stretches

“I found that taking short breaks throughout the day helps move my mood.”

Giving makes us feel good. Carrying out acts of kindness, whether small or large, can increase happiness, life satisfaction and general sense of wellbeing.

GIVING is more than just sharing material things with others. It's about cultivating a spirit of generosity and actively supporting others.

The acts of giving, receiving and being aware of acts of kindness, even indirectly, give us a sense of purpose and self-worth.

Giving also builds mana and connection with others. At work, a culture of giving helps to build a positive emotional environment and promotes connection, empathy and team work.

Examples:

- Compliment someone
- Help a colleague with their work
- Share your ideas or feedback
- Get involved with a charity
- Express gratitude - thank someone
- Make someone a cup of tea
- Support a friend or whānau member
- Do the dishes for someone
- Perform a random act of kindness for a colleague, friend or even a stranger

“After our colleague had a stroke, my team decided to raise money for the Stroke Foundation, and we all went to the office to hand over the cheque. It felt so good to be part of something that will make a positive difference to others.” Jules, Accounts Manager

Paying more attention to the present moment,
to thoughts and feelings and to the world around us can boost our wellbeing.

Using ATTENTION to increase awareness, concentration, and focus on the current moment and the task at hand, has been shown to improve wellbeing and mood.

These are skills that can give us greater creativity, accuracy, and productivity.

Becoming more aware of the present moment means noticing the sights, smells, sounds and tastes we're experiencing, as well as the thoughts and feelings that occur from one moment to the next. It's about reconnecting with the world around us, appreciating the little things and savouring the moment.

Examples:

- Keep a beautiful object near your desk
- Plan to look up at the night sky
- Notice signs of the season changing
- Practise gratitude
- Try mindfulness meditation
- Sit quietly in a garden or park
- Listen to your favourite music
- Take a break from digital devices
- Single-task – do one thing at a time

“Since I started meditating during my morning break, I am finding I can stay much calmer when I get difficult calls and have to deal with heated emotions on the phone. Generally, I don't feel as stressed when I get home as I used to.” Matthew, Customer Services
